Board Member

Dmitri Stockton's career spanned a total of 30 years with GE Company where he was one of ~20 Senior Vice Presidents and a member of the Corporate Executive Council. After spending over five years as Chairman, President and CEO of GE's $120 billion asset management arm, he successfully sold the business in 2016 and became a Special Advisor within GE until his retirement in 2017. While at the company, Stockton held a series of escalating leadership positions including working abroad as a CEO for a decade. In his final assignment outside the United States, he architected the restructuring of GE Capital's Global Banking unit during the financial crisis—restoring the business to stability and delivering record profitability in 2010. Previously, he was President & CEO of GE Consumer Finance in Eastern Europe where he led the expansion of the platform's earnings more than four-fold.

Stockton has served extensively on both public and private boards across several industry sectors, including his current director roles at Deere & Company, Target Corporation, WestRock Company and Ryder Systems. He also serves as an Operating Partner with The Vistria Group, supporting their portfolio companies in an advisory capacity. Stockton earned a bachelor's degree from North Carolina A&T State University in Accounting in 1986 and began his career with Arthur Andersen.
